The whole are copyhold of the manor of Foxton Bury and let at the low yearly rent of £19. Further particulars may be known of Mr Day of Royston.
1786	08	05	3	Cambridgeshire. To be sold by private contract. A copyhold farmhouse situate at Foxton in the county of Cambridge, with a garden, orchard and farm yard thereunto adjoining: and 10 acres and half a rood of arable land in the common fields of Foxton, and 3 acres of meadow ground. And 1 acre and a half of rich pasture ground adjoining the homestall, with commons without stint. Mr Loker. The tenant, will show the premises. For further particulars enquire of Mr Gordon Attorney, Free School Lane, Cambridge.
1788	04	05	3	On Tuesday last, about three o'clock in the afternoon, a fire broke out in a wheat case belonging to Mr William Hurrell, of Foxton in this county, which raged with irresistible fury till past midnight and destroyed seventeen dwelling houses, a malting office containing a considerable quantity of malt, a great number of barns, outhouses, stacks etc. A man who had been confined for 20 years as a lunatic, perished in the flames notwithstanding every endeavour was used to save him. Several pigs, calves and sheep were burnt. It is supposed the premises were maliciously set on fire. We are sorry to add, that a very considerable part of the property was not insured.

1789	09	26	2	Notice of Courts to be holden for the Manor, as under, belonging to Richard Bendyshe Esq.                  For the Manor of Foxton Bury with Wimbish and Chatteris, on Friday the 16th October at 11 o'clock in the morning, at the Manor House there.                  For the Manor of Mortimers, in Foxton, the same morning at 12 o'clock at the usual place.                  At which times and places, the tenants of the said respective manor are personally to appear, to do and perform their several and respective suits and services; and all persons claiming title and having right to be admitted tenants of any customary or copy hold messuages, lands, or tenements, held of the said manor by Copy of Court Roll, are then and there to appear and be admitted accordingly.                  Edwd Day, Steward. Royston, Sept 15 1789
1790	09	25	1	Cambridgeshire                  Notice of Courts to be holden for the Manor, as under, belonging to Richard Bendyshe Esq.                  For the Manor of Foxton Bury with Wimbish and Chatteris, on Friday the 15th October at 11 o'clock in the morning, at the Manor House there.                  For the Manor of Mortimers, in Foxton, the same morning at 12 o'clock at the usual place:
1791	02	26	3	A few days ago died Mr. William Hurrell, an opulent farmer, at Foxton in this county
1791	10	22	3	On Saturday morning, about six o'clock, a fire broke out at the homestall of Mr Hurrell, at Foxton in this county, which raged furiously for several hours, and destroyed a barley barn and granary, with a considerable quantity of grain therein a hay barn full of hay, and a stable. There is every reason to suppose the premises were maliciously set on fire. We are happy to hear that the whole were insured.
1791	12	24	3	On Tuesday morning about seven o'clock a fire broke out in a (peate) stack belonging to Mr. Hurrell of Foxton in this county which entirely destroyed the same but by the exertions of Mr Hurrell's servants and neighbours the flames were prevented from spreading to the other stacks in the yard. The damage is estimated at about £100. Mr Hurrell had a barn full of corn &amp;c burnt down on the 15th of October last and we are sorry to say there is reason to believe the premises were both times maliciously set on fire.

1791	12	31	3	We congratulate the public on things being now in a fair way towards tracing out the authors of the late dreadful fires which have so often alarmed the different villages in this neighbourhood. On Saturday last a warrant was issued by the Rev. W.L. Mansel to apprehend John Evans Sen. A man aged upwards of 80 and Richard Wallis a boy not yet 13, both of Foxton in this county, being charged on a violent suspicion of having been concerned in the late fires which have broken out at Mr. Hurrell's of Foxton aforesaid. On their examination before magistrates it came out on the confession of the boy, that at the instigation of the old man, and a shilling reward the old man instigated him to set some more of Mr. Hurrell's property on fire which the boy accordingly consented to do. And caused the last very alarming fire, which our readers remember to have broken out at Foxton, about ten days ago. The boy moreover confessed that the old man, when he first applied to him said "if you will set Mr. Hurrell's ricks on fire I will tell you who fired the town about three years ago" and that upon the boy's consenting to do so, Evans said "he himself was the man" Upon this day were both committed to the castle.

1827	7	20	3	Tuck v. The Commissioners of Inclosure at Foxton (copy to be made of a long report of an appeal)
1827	9	21	3	On Wednesday evening the Safety Coach on its way from London to Cambridge was robbed of various parcels and goods which were in the hind boot, the lock having been forced, it is supposed, between the villages of Foxton and Hauxton. Some portion of the property has however been recovered, being found yesterday in a plantation near Shelford.

1827	10	26	2	Appeals. Samuel Tuck v. the Commissioners of Foxton Inclosure. This case, which was an appeal against the award of the commissioners, occupied the attention of the court at the last sessions when the subject in dispute was referred to Mr. John Prickett, of Highgate, and the appeal was respited until the present sessions. Mr. [Hunt] now informed the Court that the gentleman to whom the matter had been referred had made a decision satisfactory to all the parties and he moved that the award be confirmed, which was accordingly done, each party paying their own costs.
